

110 years in the making

CX – The roman numerals of 110, represents the ground breaking milestone for Charles Owen.

110 years and four generations of innovation, development and design culminate in a truly bespoke offering of the highest performance safety equipment.

Always Handcrafted

Every CX helmet will require the individual craftsmanship of six of the most highly skilled artisans, masters of their craft, with multiple years of experience and a wealth of knowledge, all proudly based in the UK.

As a mark of the highest quality CX represents, the signature of the final artisan who personally inspected your helmet, can be found on the authenticity certificate within the box.

Always Innovating

Neither style nor safety is comprised, with every CX helmet conforming to 3 individual international safety standards and incorporating optional MIPS protection.

Since 1911 Charles Owen has raised the bar for the whole of equestrian safety, saving hundreds of thousands of lives over its 110-year journey. It's the driving force for everyone working at Charles Owen.

Today, Charles Owen invests more into research and development than ever before, and sits on the board of multiple major international safety standard committees, constantly striving to improve equestrian safety.
